

LEAN THINKING - OPERATIONS IMPROVEMENT – CONTINUOUS IMPROVEMENT

www.kaizen-consult.biz

We help organizations operating in Africa to develop the necessary agility to grow without losing focus on operations.

Companies in Africa face many uncertainties (demand, supply, external factors), and have to constantly adapt their operations to survive and thrive. Within that framework, they also need to find the right balance with cost and efficiency, while increasing output's quality and productivity.

Improving one thing at the time

We develop your company's culture in a way that empowers your employees to identify problems, and experiment solutions that will take them one step further every time. We embed in your team the continuous improvement mentality that will slowly create your competitive advantage and help you achieve your ambitions and beyond.

While companies tend to launch large improvement projects, we propose an everyday continuous improvement approach engrained in your DNA.

Ideal for all companies involved in operations in:

- Manufacturing sector
- Industrial products sector
- FMCG sector
- Service sector

What we propose

- Review of the current condition – processes, tools, interactions
- Develop a target condition – what is the company aiming for
- Improvement frameworks to be put in place
- Training the staff in continuous improvement and problem solving technics
- Accompany the company with hands-on approach to create a sustainable culture
